

Re-Orientation Day the breakout

My breakout group did a walkthrough around the streets hearing sounds for 20 mins everywhere. What's interesting is people can listen to conversations, laughter, air, and traffic.

- My reaction would be from Henry's interest because he was mentioning about Hong Kong's history. It reminded me, how I feel the suffering about the protests it happened in 2019.
- Carmel was talking about her relationship with her family such as her grandparents she never sees. It's sad to hear how she say that she doesn't know who her grandparents are. It's like how I never knew my dad's grandparents before I was born or never get to know them.
- She also mentioned about queers and sexually.
- Stan's interest was sort of sad and abandoned the photographs I notice was just building being leased. Kind of reminds me of how Burnaby could be possibly the same where's can be abandoned or never been touched.
- I realized that Stan was talking the building being leased for sale it reminds me of how housing can be expensive nowadays.
